Ronald Reagan is considering sending a special envoy to South Africa to discuss the situation there with President Pieter W. Botha but has oot reached a decision, Larry Speakes, the White House spokesman, said Thursday.

As pressure continued to mount on the administration to take some concrete action to show its concern about the imposition of a nationwide state of emergency, Mr. Speakes said the idea of sen ndine someone like" Senator Paul Laxalt had been discussed at the White House. But he added, "I don't think there's been any consideration given to doing it yet."

Senator Laxalt, Republican of Nevada and a close friend of the president, was dispatched last Oc-iober to convey Mr. Reagan's con-cern to President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines about the deteriorating situation there and to urge him to hold new presi-dential elections, which eventually led to his downfall.

Meanwhile, the administration Respressed its "strong opposition" to the vote Wednesday in the House calling for a total and immediate U.S. disinvestment from South Africa. The surprise action was taken by voice vote with no recorded oppositioo to the sweeping measure. Mr. Speakes said, "We have grave misgivings and strong oppo-sition to attempts that would legis-

South Africa Sets Curfew; White Man Is Slain

Compiled by Our Staff From Disputcher JOHANNESBURG - Police mposed a night curfew on townships in the troubled eastern region of South Africa's Cape province Thursday as the government announced that a man found burned to death in the area was white.

Earlier, a civil rights group said South Africa, which introduced a nationwide state of emergency on June 12, might be holding about 3,000 people.

The curfew, ordered under curergency regulations by the local po-lice commissioner, Ernest Schnetler, bars people from town-ship streets and public places be-tween 9 P.M. and 4 A.M.

The government's Bureau for Information said the charred body of a man found Wednesday in KwaNobuhic, one of the townships covered by the curfew, had been iden-tified as Lodewyk Vlooh, a white man reported missing over the weekend. He is one of a handful of white victims of over two years of unrest that has claimed more than 1,900 lives.

The black and colored townships of the eastern Cape have been among the focal points of the violence.

The government had said Port Elizabeth-area townships produced the worst violence in the country on Monday, when blacks staged a nationwide general strike to commemorate the 10th anniversary of the Soweto riots.

White voters in Port Elizabeth, an auto manufacturing center on the Indian Ocean, voted 6,104 to 4.957 on Wednesday against integrating their beaches. The results were announced Thursday.

Other curbs ordered by Commissioner Schnetler bar nonresidents from the townships and prohibit people from owning clothes or other articles bearing the names of some 47 community groups and

France Eases Law on Press Ownership

PARIS (NYT) - The National Assembly voted Thursday to rein PARIS (NY I) — Introduced resonances resonances to the sense to regulations that limited the number of newspapers a single individual can legally own in France, a move that will have the effect of helping Proper largest press magnate. The action, widely expected, reversed a controversial effort by the former Socialist government to curb the influence of Robert Hersen who controls about 28 percent of the newspaper circulation of the country. The measure still limits newspaper ownership to 30 percent of circulation in France. Under the Socialists ownership was limited to he circulation in France. Under the Socialists ownership was limited to a percent of circulation. This could not be applied retroactively and did so affect Mr. Hersant.

The new legislation was likely to be interpreted here as an importan-political gesture in favor of Mr. Hersant, a powerful figure within the majority conservative coslition, who has for many years longin again legal restrictions on the expansion of his publishing compire.

Court Nominees to Face Stiff Questioning By Steven V. Roberts New York Tunes Service WASHINGTON - While President Ronald Reagan's choices for the Supreme Court seem likely to win Senate confirmation with little trouble, they will face stiff questioning on Capitol Hill about the ideological underpinnings of their legal views, according to leading Democratic senators.

Ideology is a "reasonable consideration" in the evaluation of judi-cial nominations, particularly to the Supreme Court, said Senator Paul Simon of Illinois, who monitors judicial selections for the Democratic members of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

"The law should not be a pendulum, swinging from one extreme to another depending on the adminis-tration," he said Wednesday. "There ought to be stability."

But some Republicans disagreed Democrats, as Senator Orrin G. Hatch of Utah put it. He said, "It would be a disgrace to fight them strictly on the basis of a disagree-interview in Dublin. Before the United States changed its laws in 1965, the immigration quots for Ireland was so high that its citizens enjoyed virtually free access. Now they must compete with citizens from other countries by meeting such requirements as family ties or skills that are needed in the United States. Joan Smith, consul at the U.S. Embassy in Dublin, is predicting a 45-percent increase in legal emigration to the United States over each of the next two years. The economic sluggishness in Britain, combined with the difficulty in getting into the United States, has led to an increased interest in continental Europe. A popular destination is Belgium because of the European Community offices and multinational corporations there. According to one estimate, there are 2,000 Irish nationals in Belgium. Figures are oot

On Shooting of Pope ROME - The Jestnit magazine La Civiltà Cattolica calls the acquittal of six persons charged with conspiring to kill Pope John Paul II "disconcerting." The magazine said the attack appeared to be "an international plot" but that this would proba-bly never be proved. The pope was shot and wound-ed in St. Peter's Square on May

Ethiopian Defector Says Mengistu Prepares Communist State

had an impact on Western Europe's politics, bot fortunately not an overwhelming one. Although Lower Saxony is heavily dependent on nuclear energy, the returns in the state elections there last Sunday show no clear imprint of the accident. If voters were swinging away from nuclear power, NATO's nuclear weapons and the govern-ment that supports both, that would presumably have been visible in the strength of the Green Party. The Greens went from 6.5 percent of the vote in the state's last election four years ago to 7.1 percent this time. That is less than a triumph.

Pa

One reason was doubtless the nature of the Green Party, which never does things by halves. Not only is it against the NATO missiles, it wants to pull the Federal Republic out of NATO altogether. Not only does it denotes in the second secon for the Greens would lead to chaos, a thought that touches the Weimar reflex the ingrained German fear of an impotent government that cannot cope with political violence in the streets.

The election attracted more than local

The nuclear disaster at Chernobyl has interest, for it was a precursor to national elections next January. The state is run by the same center-right coalition that holds the same center-right coalition that holds power in Bonn, and if it had lost in Lower Saxony, Chancellor Helmut Kohl would have been in danger of being removed from office by his Christian Democratic Party before the national campaign began. Responding to that possibility, Mr. Kohl campaigned vigorously in Lower Saxony despite a rather tepid reception from the local candidates. They considered Mr. Kohl, whose style is ponderous and deeply cautious, to be less popular than his party. But, although the party did not win quite as many votes as it did four years ago, it won enough — by a hairbreadth — to remain in enough - by a hairbreadth - to remain in enough — by a hairbreadth — to remain in office. By engaging himself directly and risking his job, Mr. Kohl seems to have improved his standing in his party and perhaps in the country as well. This narrow victory is another indication that the January elections may be close. But it also suggests that the January results will turn mainly on traditional German issues such as prosperity and stability. Nuclear sensitivities are great, but at least in this highly conspicuous instance they do not appear to have changed many votes.

What Yellow Rain?

Admitting error is hard for everyone, and apparently close to impossible for governments led out on a limb by flawed intelligence analysis. Such is the case with "yellow rain," the alleged biological warfare agent that the Reagan administration repeatedly accused the Soviet Unioo of supplying for use in Southeast Asia.

Yellow rain has turned out to be rather more mundane stuff than the deadly Soviet poison it was alleged to contain. It is, as the administration will burst before admitting, the excrement of jungle bees. The sticky spots retrieved from supposed attack sites in Laos and Cambodia are yellow because they are full of digested pollen grains. They rain down from an invisible source because the bees often fly too high to be seen.

Hmong refugees ascribe certain of their many illnesses to yellow rain, a folk tale cagerly swallowed by credulous Western experts seeking evidence of chemical attacks. The State Department accused the Russians of supplying Vietnam with yel-low-rain weapons in 1981 after a laboratory detected minute amounts of trichothecenes - fungus-made toxins - in yellow rain samples. Allies were encouraged to test the samples or gather their own, and their mumbled assents were cagerly welcomed in Washington as corroboration - not least because the U.S. Army's chemical lab had failed to detect toxin in its 80 samples.

These allied analyses were performed several years ago, but the results emerged only last month. The British Ministry of Defense said that its tests of 1983 failed to detect trichothecenes in "alleged chemical warfare" samples supplied by U.S. authorities. The Ministry says it believes for other reasons that chemical attacks "probably did take place in Southeast Asia," but its studies "neither support nor contradict" the thesis that yellow rain is bee feces.

Even less supportive was the word from Canada's Department of External Affairs that it had oot detected trichothecenes. Trace amounts were measured in the bloodstreams of five of 280 Thais examined --but the subjects were chosen from the general population, not presumed victims of attacks. The five infected persons almost certainly acquired the toxins by eating fungus-tainted food. And that discredits the State Department's contention that fungus toxins in its samples of yellow rain had to be man-made because such toxins do not occur naturally in Southeast Asia.

Instead of conceding a goof, the White House struggles to save face. "Our conclusion that chemical weapons use has occurred in Southeast Asia is based on evidence collected several years prior to 1984," when the Canadian samples were gathered, says a U.S. spokesman. But nature doesn't work that way. If trichothecene-making funguses were naturally present in Asia in 1984, they were present before the Reagan administration took office.

The administration can admit that yellow rain is bee excrement, and that it has made an intelligence blunder, or it can doggedly march on, unsupported by its own army or allies, with the thesis that yellow rain is an agent of biological warfare. It has so far found retreat too preposterous to contemplate. But its posture is more so:

In France, Political Vaudeville Is Out of Fashion

PARIS — French "cohsbitation" is working in the sense that there is no crisis of government. But the atmosphere is turning sour and politicians on all sides are chafing at unaccustomed restraints.

The voters and the constitution combined three months ago to impose a regime of a conservative coali-tion cabinet, headed by Prime Minis-ter Jacques Chirac, and a socialist president, François Mitterrand, be solved by the process of the solved by th vantageous to force new elections. Meanwhile they are manacled to each other, facing a probably severe electoral penalty if they buck the popular will for balance and at least the appearance of harmony. This is a new mood for France, It may be a sea change from the old habit of die-hard political confrontation. The gap between political as-sumptions and public attitudes has oever seemed wider. When he saw Mr. Chirac sweeping power into his large mobile hands and reducing the president's role to a pierre Mauroy, Mr. Mitterrand's first prime minister, issued a plaintive recannily passive strategy. In the Fifth Republic founded by Charles de Gaulle, the president has almost complete power so long as he commands a parliamentary majority. Lacking that, Mr. Mitterrand intervenes only on matters of basic principle and protocol. Whatever happens, he can say, is entirely Mr. Chirac's doing against his own better judgment. As a result his polls are improv-ing and Mr. Chirac's are sagging.

By Flora Lewis

ing and Mr, Chirac's are sagging. There are some complaints that the new government is oot going fast enough in dumping socialist reforms. Bot, surprisingly, there is more com-plaint that it is going too far. "The liberals (i.e., in French parlance, the conservatives) are just like the Socialists, they want to turn ev-erything upside down to suit them-selves," resumes what many are say-ing. People seem to be just as irritated that Mr. Chirac's team is applying its program as they were when the Socialists practiced what they preached. There is an intriguing parallel in the politicians' disconcerted reaction,

buke to intellectuals after some months in office for not providing the enthusiastie support he thought he had earned by simply winning. In the same way, Mr. Chirac recently ticked off employers for not investing and creating jobs that he had promised in balance between detting down their name, thus letting him down. Mr. Chirac backed off after a buffy response, instead seeking to cajole businessmen by claiming that he had nine years to go, so they needn't fear uncertainty. That was nervy. It im-plied that he took for granted that be would be prime minister for two years and then president for seven.

Either way, the politicians have acted as if their constituents were obliged to appland. And the poblic is making clear that it isn't much interested in ideology, polemics or flashy political footwork. It wants the gov-emors to get down to running the country efficiently, tackling uncan-ployment, which is still going up, and availing energy in the tension avoiding enervating tension. Some commentators surmise that the country may be signaling a wish for a more or less permanent cohabitation that would reduce the concentration of power and set limits oo swings between governments. That would be a whole new game for what the French call "the poliocal class."

It fogs all prediction. So far, the Chirac administration has taken some strong measures on money, cutting out the wealth tax, money, cirtuing out the weath tax, lowering company taxes, restoring the right to own gold anonymously and to pay big bills in cash. Most prices have been decontrolled, and it will be easier for employers to fire workers. Landlords are favored, and exchange controls have been relaxed although not removed. Election by proportional representatioo has been revoked. The police have been given stern, arbitrary powers to make iden-tity checks and expel foreigners.

But there has oot been a Reagan revolution. Denationalization is yet to come and deregalation is limited. France is evolving rather differently than the United States. It apparently does not want to be roused, flattered or frightened, just put to productive, rewarding work. That is hard on combative, image-making politicians. The New York Times.

Haiti Needs Support

Haiti seemed in the past several weeks to be sliding toward anarchy. Now Henri Namphy, head of the provisional government, has tried to generate a sense of orderly democratic progress by announcing a rigorous timetable over the next 20 months. A constituent assembly is to be elected in October to write a constitution that should go to referendum oext winter. Uoder it a president would be elected in November 1987 and take office the next February.

A firm schedule is a necessary step, but it is probably oot sufficient in itself to achieve is probably oot sufficient in itself to achieve stability. Hait's terrible poverty feeds a sense of desperate impatience that is going to be extremely difficult for its temporary government to control — particularly in a country with a total absence of democratic experience. Its history has been a repetition of short periods of chaos interspersed with long periods of one-man rule. Due to repressive and exploitative government over the years, Haiti remains the least developed country in the Caribbean. Incomes average about one-fourth those in Jamaica or the Dominican Republic, to cite two close neighbors. Bad government has perpetuated extreme deprivation, and oow extreme deprivation threatens to perpetuate bad government. How is the cycle of violence and despotism to be broken?

The government is under attack from both right and left. People who held poliocally protected franchises and monopolies under the Duvalier regime are working to preserve them. It seems clear that they are instigating some of the rioting. At the same time the government, in its desperate effort to keep spending under control, has closed some dramatically unprofitable publicly owned plants. People who have lost or fear losing jobs have joined demonstrations.

General Namphy's timetable for elections will require a great deal of pobtical organization to be accomplished very rapidly, but it may still be too slow to provide the kind of responsive daily government that Haiti needs immediately. The social conditions that support the development of democracy -- more education, better health services, a rising standard of living generally - can be accomplished only over time.

But while the basic choices are up to Haiti's people, U.S. assistance this year can make a difference. The United States has shipped grain to Haiti since the revolution. but otherwise there has been no increase yet in aid. The reason is the budget squeeze in Washington. The cuts in foreign aid are doing substantial damage to U.S. interests abroad and need to be reconsidered. The provisional government is entitled to greater support in the months immediately ahead while the processes of democracy and economic development begin to work.

Mr. Gorbachev's decree heads in the opposite direction. WASHINGTON - From Africa to the Philippines, deprived ar-eas around the world clamor for a "Marshall Plan." It is often forgotten that such enterprises can be carried out only in certain circumstances. The Marshall Plan provided emer-gency aid to West European nations after World War II. Over time, they were able to rebuild their economies to become stable and prosperous.

As it happened, it was at my gradn-ation from Harvard College in June 1947 that Secretary of State George Marshall, the commencement speak-er, first suggested that the United States "should do whatever it is able to do to assist in the return of normal cconomic health to the world." be vigorously promoted. The policy-makers in the Truman administration had shaped the program with essentially one thought in mind - to prevent the possibility of

I nor my classmates quite grasped the meaning of this proposal. General Marshall was not an eloquent orator, Communist advances in Western Europe by reconstructing the war-torn economies of the area.

The memory of the Soviet Union's sacrifices during the war was too fresh to permit publicizing the plan as an anti-Communist endeavor. On the contrary, the Russians had to be invited to participate in the program, in the spirit of the wartime alliance. American officials feared that Moscow would accept the invitation and then go on to wreck the effort. There was considerable relief in Washington when the Soviets boycotted it, denouncing it as an exercise in U.S. "imperialism."

In U.S. impenation. The program could now be pre-sented to Capitol Hill as an anti-Communist gambit, and it sailed through in that guise. Congress was to appropriate $13.3 billion in relief over a four-year period. The sum seems small by current inflated standards, but it was decisive.

I was then a young correspondent in Europe, and I could observe the changes. Moribund factories began to revive, farming was regenerated and people gradually regained self-confidence. The Communist threat, which had been real, subsided slowly. Many West Europeans these days overlook the debt they owe America for the restoration of their societies. By the same token, many Americans are unaware of the role played by the Enropeans in their own recovery.

What made the Marshall Plan workable, in large measure, was the fact that it operated through sophisticated European institutions composed of experienced political figures and civil servants who were capable of using the American aid funds rationally and effectively.

In other words, the program could be administered on a cooperative basis, with a minimum of inefficiency, waste and corruption. The point is worth emphasizing at present, when proposals abound for introducing Marshall Plans to cope with the dreadful economic chal-in different places at a different time. In contrast with postwar Europe,

ANTIAGO - General Augusto Pinochet seized power in Chile more than 12 vears ago determined to shrink the economic role of the state, which had been enlarged by the leftist government of Salvador

Adopting free-market theories advanced by economic aides, many of whom studied at the University of Chicago, General Pinochet slashed the payrolls of state-run enterprises and sold hundreds of companies to private interests. But now the Chilcan general is back where he started, with much of the economy in the govemment's hands.

' In fact, General Pinochet had, until recently, more economic control than Mr. Allende schieved in his three years in power before he was overthrown by the military in 1973.

What happened in Chile illustrates some of the pitfalls facing Latin American leaders bent on streamlining bloated public sectors. But General Pinochet's case is most intriguing because the 70-year-old dictator now has a second chance to privatize and is approaching it with the political plotting of an avowed anti-Communist tactician.

General Pinochet is battling leftists in the streets and crecting barriers against them in the stock market.

Some of his setback was just bad huck. Private Chilean banks collapsed in 1982 because foreign loans had dried up and the price of copper, Chile's principal export, had plunged. The government took administrative control of the failed banks and assumed the debts of numerous companies whose dollar obligations Pinochet had allowed a handful of giant hold-ing companies, using credit from Chilean and There is a not-so-hidden political aim in all this. Before leaving power, General Pinochet and his military colleagues intend to restructure foreign banks, to pile company on top of comeconomic ownership in such a way as to impede pany in a classic pyramiding operation. The pyramids collapsed three years ago, and it is any future attempt at nationalization.

> Y ENTRAL to this strategy is a program called "popular capitalism." Introduced last year, it involves distributing among a large number of investors shares in some of the companies whose debts were assumed by the Central Bank. By spreading ownership among many people, the government hopes to make it more difficult for any future leftist government to get the companies back.

"The advantage of this diffusion of property is that you inhibit nationalization," said Rend Cortázar, an economist at the economic think tank Cieplan. "If someone tries to expropriate a company, be will confront thousands of screaming shareholders."

But restructuring takes time, which is one of the arguments being put forward by junta members to justify continued military rule in the face of increased U.S. and domestic pressure to return Chile to democracy.

So far, a majority of shares in Chile's two largest private banks — Banco de Chile and Banco de Santiago — have been sold through "popular capitalism." So have substantial parts of two large private pension funds, AFP Pro-vida and AFP Santa Maria.

The rest of the shares in these and other insolvent companies have been auctioned to foreign companies or placed with wealthy Chilcan investors.

The government is also trying to sell off enterprises that have belonged to the state for a long time. In some cases, it is offering workers in these companies a chance to buy shares.

At the time of the 1973 coup, when Mr. Allende was killed and General Pinochet came to power, state-run companies and the public sector accounted for 39 percent of Chile's gross domestic product. By last year the number had dropped to 24 percent, which is still far above the 14 percent before Mr. Allende took power. But that is not the whole story.

The bankrupt banks that came under the nment's administrative control in 1983 had utle to about a third of all outstanding loans last year. Some of those loans represented major pressure points for important companies, among them Santiago's two largest daily newspapers. So, in assuming indirect title to these obligations, the state enhanced its economic influence. Until the sale of the banks got fully under way this year, General Pinochet's effective control of the economy topped that of Mr. Allende.

Many sizable companies are still managed by government appointees. Although the number of state enterprises declined from 377 in 1973 to 35 last year, they still dominate communications, petroleum refining, electric power generation, mining and other important fields.

The government owns six of the country's 10 largest enterprises. State companies currently account for 60 percent of the assets of Chile's 50 largest publicly traded corporations.

INDING buyers for state companies has not been easy. Private investors are wary of putting funds into huge enterprises with low return in a politically unstable coun-

Then, too, military influence m state enterprises is strong, and some military officers resist privatization. They want to retain control of certain strategic areas of the economy, especially communications, energy and mining. While government officials are calling the "popular capitalism" program a success, others doubt that such schemes alone will be enough to guard against future socialist experiments.

Mr. Cortázar, the economist, said: "The question is whether you are able to create a consensus in this country for private property rights. Popular capitalism is just a shortcut to an issue that has to be addressed directly. That would be a better guarantee for private proper-ty than all these tricks."

the first time in three seasons, resigned wednesday after team owned Harold Ballard offered him only a one-year contract renewal. Maloney 35, had coached the Maple Leafs for two seasons. In Uniondale, New York, Terry Simpson, a successful coach in the junior ranks for 15 years, was hired as coach of the New York Islanders. Simpson, 42, who had been coaching the Prince Albert (Saskatchewan) Raiders of the Western Hockey League, was given a multiyear contract to succeed Al Arbour, 53, who retired in May after 13 seasons. England's six goals, almost singlehandedly propelling his team into the quarterfinals. He is tied for leading scorer in the tournament with Spain's Emilio Butragneño. But the man who is one of the hottest properties in European soc-dream to be top goal scorer and I would be lying if I didn't admit I have that ambition," he said. Three weeks ago, few could have imagined Lincker would be sitting so firmly on top of the world.

In a warm-up match against Canada, be tangled with defender Randy Samuel and appeared to have suffered a broken arm. But 24 bours later, Lineker breezed into Monterrey with the rest of the squad, his wrist in plaster and his arm in a sling, happily reporting that it was nothing more than a bad sprain.

Butragueño's 4 Goals Lead

Butragueño, the man they call "the vulture," knocked Denmark out of the World Cup soccer tournament, 5-1, and gave the Spaniards the last berth in the quarterfinals. England's 3-0 victory over Paraguay in Wednesday's other match, in Mexico City, gave Europe five quarterfinal places to Latin America's three. Gary Lineker was the star for England with two goals. For the Danes it was a sad exit after they had enchanted fans around the world with their brilliant, attacking soccer. Denmark led briefly through a 33d-minute penalty by Jesper Ol-sen. But Olsen was guilty of a terri-ble error in the 44th minute. His back pass to goalie Lars Hogh was too weak and Butragueño intercepted and scored.

Denmark still looked the better team at the beginning of the second half but Preben Elkjaer, who had scored four goals in the finals, wasted two good chances within a minute.

The match turned around completely from the 57th minute when Spain took the lead. José Antonio Camacho headed a corner kick to

Spain's 'Vulture': A Predatory Player but a Reluctant Hero

By Richard Boudreaux The Associated Press

QUERETARO, Mexico - Despite a World Cup record-tying four goals, Spanish striker Emilio Butragueño sounds like the tournament's most reluctant hero.

"There are other players far better than me in this championship," Butragueño said Wednesday. "Those four goals do oot make me the best player on earth, not in the least!"

The performance, which led Spain to a 5-1 victory over Denmark in the second round, was the ninth time four goals had been scored in a World Cup game but the first since 1966, when Portugal's Eusebio accomplished the feat against North Korea.

It also put the 22-year-old Spaniard in a tie with England's Gary Lineker atop the scoring leaders with five goals.

The prospect of the match Sunday has triggered some predictable chanvinism among fans, in the British press and even in some players. But the Argentine and English managers are trying to keep politics off the field.

And in London, there were some who thought the game might even go some way toward a restoration of diplomatic relations.

These were severed at the time of not be mixed with politics. My the conflict, in which Britain sent a seaborne task force to recapture the South Atlantic archipelago after it was invaded on April 2, 1982, by Argentina's former military rulers. The war lasted 74 days, killing 712 Argentines and 255 Britons.

Attempts to resume relations have foundered on Argentina's insistence on negotiating the sover-eignty of the Falklands, which it calls the Malvinas, and Britain's refusal to discuss the subject. During England's 3-0 victory over Paraguay on Wednesday that set up the quarterfinal, 5,000 English fans chanted "Bring on the Argies," using a term coined by the tabloid press for the Argentines during the war.

Denmark Manager Piontek May Quit

COPENHAGEN (AFP) - Denmark's manager, Sepp Piontek, may resign in a dispute with the Danish soccer federation, the Extra Bladet oewspaper reported here Thursday.

The paper said Piontek had already been unhappy with federation officials at the World Cup finals before Denmark lost to Spain on Wednesday. He apparently complained that they did not protest strongly enough to FIFA, the world federation, about the Spaniards' behavior while the teams were lodged in the same Mexico City hotel.

The paper quoted him as saying that Tuesday night there was "an alcobolic orgy" at the hotel, which stopped only when he threatened to call the police. Piontek's contract runs to 1988, but he has had several offers from his native West Germany and the Middle East.

by Richard F. Shepard EW YORK - The feverish festival of the Fourth of July celebration of the centennial of the Statue of Liberty may convey the impression that New York will be suffering from too much of a good thing that weekend. The lady in the harbor will set the tone for much of what the city is promising to visitors this summer. But New York is not a single-theme town in the style of Pamplona, Salzburg or Oberammergau, and the tourist will find that the city is a special treat in summer.

The city's pulse slows palpably as the temperature and humidity climb. Perhaps the pace is oot slow by standards of less rushed places but here summer is seen as a creepy time, an interval when things move from inside to outside. Except for the most torrid of days, office workers throng streets during the lunch hour, forsaking air conditioning in sealed towers for the warmer pleasures of baking streets, concrete plazas trimmed with foliage or just points of vantage in makeshift positions that afford the best opportunities for peo-New York turns into a Walkman sound device in summer, with the channel chang-ing, block by block, each with a different ensemble, from jazz to rock, from Caribbean steel-drum concerto to Juilliard students performing baroque. On a clear day, one might hear a bagpiper squeal on Fifth After 5 P.M., as downtown offices and streets empty, the visitor will find soft evenings as the slanting rays of a sum setting over New Jersey impart a delicate golden glow to the city of stone and steel. In this interlude between New York with sleeves rolled up for work and New York amusing itself after dark, there is a scremity abroad that puts the city that never sleeps in an unwonted, wistful dimension,

For all this case-up, the city is by no means moribund. The tourist who has not share the vernal languor if he is diligent about it. Most things are open throughout the vacation season. This year, much of the cultural calendar is taken up with themes that relate to Miss Liberty, whose many aspects embrace the eternal if spotty, American romance with France and things French, and also, her message of freedom and her significance for that most central of American phenomena, immigration.

The first week in July - a time when many New Yorkers flee across the city line for rest and recreation from the expensive occanfront of the Hamptons to the more plebcian mountains of the Catskills --- will not, it appears, reflect the usual slack that betokens a change in season. The stanie itself will reopen for public visiting on July 5, the day after the pyrotechnics and accompanying ceremonials have been completed. A press of pilgrims to Bartholdi's inspiration is anticipated and a Statue of Liberty Visitors Bureau has been installed in the lobby of a skyscraper on Park Avenue and 41st Street. One may take the Circle Line boat to the statue and compete with the crowds or one may sail past it, as most newcomers did until the airplane took over. The view is no less spectacular from the deck of a Staten Island ferry on its 15-minute voyage, with the added attraction of a 25-cent roundtrip fare.

New York's museums are leaping on the Liberty bandwagon with dozens of special exhibits, some central and some peripheral to the theme. The American Museum of Immigration, in the statue's base, reopens with its permanent collection of men 1002 bilia and documentation that tells the story of newcomers.

At the South Street Seaport Museum, a sprawing complex of landmark buildings and historic ships in the old Fulton Fish Market, "The Promise of America" tells the story as it applies to Norwegian inun-gration. The Schomburg Center for Black Research, a beautifully housed library center in Harlem, reviews voluntary black immigration and the Jewish Museum offers, through October, a series of film, television and radio programs that deal with the American history of the Jews from earliest times.

The Museum of the City of New York and the New-York Historical Society, two separate institutions noted for their thorough and imaginative presentations of New Yorkiana, will both be taking special note of the event. So will the New York Public Library, which now has a special gallery in the magnificent classical build-ing on Fifth Avenue where books are the main stock in trade; it is showing "Liberty: The official French-American exhibit of the centennial."

The Brooklyn Museum pays homage to Bartholdi. The Cooper-Hewitt Museum, a branch of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, is offering "Embroidered Ship Portraits," views of tall ships. The Museum of Bronx History, the International Center for Photography and cafes and galleries will all line their walls with pictures that connect with the statue.

If the visitor's eyes are crossed by the multiplicity of Liberty visions, his ears will be ringing with a profusion of music that pays tribute to the occasion. From July 7 to 16, the less than snappily titled "France Salutes New York Performing Arts Festi-val" takes over various halls at Lincoln Center, the cultural enclave from which, incidentally, one may see a large miniature of the Statue of Liberty atop a nearby warehouse.

The annual "Mostly Mozart" kicks it off at Avery Fisher Hall with a special "Mozart in Paris" program. On July 8, the Paris Opera Ballet, with Rudolph Nureyev and Mikhail Baryshnikov, occupies the Metropolitan Opera House. The Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center fills Alice Tally Hall with music by French compos-ers on July 10. The next day, Cinéma-thèque Française takes over the hall with a restoration of "Casanova," with five music composed and conducted by Georges De-

The festival moves for a moment to Central Park on Bastille Day for a free New York Philharmonic Concert highlighted by Gershwin's "American in Parmusic by Debussy and Ravel and, finally, fireworks honoring the day of a French triumph, in contrast to the fireworks that accompany the orchestra's popular outdoor performance of the 1812 Overture, which memorializes a French defear

Such attractions as these are mere hors d'ocuvres on New York's menu of summer . attractions. The Broadway, Off Broadway and Off Off Broadway theaters are open and, while it is presumptious to forecast what will survive from month to month, it seems safe to advise that such musical staples as "Cats," "La Cage anx Folles," "A Chorus Line" and "42nd Street" will be available for out-of-towners who have not yet caught their acts, as will be last year's Tony-winning best musical, "Big River," and this year's winner, "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," in which the andi-ence chooses the solution. Neil Simon, as permanent a fixture on the New York scene, it seems, as the statue itself, is repre-sented by his long-tunning "Bilox Blues," while audiences are flocking to the meeting of aged Jew and black portrayed in "I'm Not Rappaport," a thoroughly New York play that has also won a Tony this YCar.

There is no period to be put to a selfimposed sentence to pursuing activity in New York. Scores of sightseeing programs are available, bost rides abound, night clubs plead for custom. One cannot take it all in during a lifetime, and it is the sage soul who realizes when it has had enough running and is ready to savor the life rather than the artifacts of the city. It is a grand thing to sit on the terraced steps of the Metropolitan Museum, thick with oth-ers of like mind, and take in the pageant of street entertainers, hawkers of balloons and hot dogs, and the infinitely varied stream of visitors to the museum.

It is downright relaxing to break off action at Bloomingdale's and Alexander's on Lexington Avenue and join those in the know at the Colombian coffee growers's tasteful promotion on East 57th Street, where tables are set up on the sidewalk and in the lobby during the summer and ! visitors get free cups of Colombian coffee. hot or cold.

The open spaces, required by zoning laws for builders who want to reach maximum height, are frigid wind tunnels inwinter but in summer they are trans-formed into delightful cases. Water and stone are mingled to create little corners designed to refresh the spirit and solace the weary feet. The International Paper Plaza, at 46th Street, is one of the more charming, a broad, open space with running rivulets and a profusion of flora.' Rockefeller Center is liberally besprinkled with such enclaves, including the particularly intimate one behind the McGraw-Hill Building with one entrance that brings the visitor through a clear tube over which a waterfall tumbles.

The outdoor bookstalls in Bryant Park on West 42d Street and at the southeast corner of Central Park do not match, perhaps, those on the Seine, but they will do, in their New York way. They, too, slow one down and this is what one wants to do in New York in the summer. Bustle may be an acquired art elsewhere; here it is a builtin fact of life and, if one were pushed to. explain, why all the rush, the answer would be: in order to be able to take it easy. That opportunity rarely arrives, but in the deep of a summer, it emerges at the odd moment in the most unlikely of places. When the tourist learns this, he is no longer a tourist, he is at one with the city. . .

HERE seems to be a very simple rule of human nature: Most of us would rather be doing anything other than what we're doing at the moment. Many doctors would rather be antique dealers, historians dream of being airline pilots, some book editors much prefer standing in front of a stove to sitting behind a desk. Few of us are ever so brave as to truly take that drastic step, perhaps because dreaming about changing lives is easier than really doing it.

But anyone who visits Le Bistro du Paradou and falls in love with this ultimately charming café-tabae, just minutes from Les-Baux-de-Pro-vence, will thank Jean-Louis Poas for giving up his job at Crédit Agricole. The world has plenty of bankers, but not a lot of bistro keepers like lean, cheery and outgoing Jean-Louis. Make a reservation for lunch, look for the white house with royal blue shutters along D 17 heading west from Maussane-les-Alpilles, and plan to settle into a fine regional meal at an authentic country café.

OU are familiar with the scene. There is a seething throng at the airport inquiry desk and you have five minutes to re-route your return to Zurich through Paris instead of Brussels. What are the options? Are there any seats left? Being an experienced traveler, you pick up the first phone that hasn't been vandal-ized and call reservations. All the lines are busy so you're switched to the airline orchestra's low-fi rendering of Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue, punctuated by electronic whin-rings and burpings. Finally, a harrassed voice: "Hold the line, please..." And then you're cut off.

Slow dissolve to a year or so from now. Same airport, same phone. It's like talking to the girl next door, a dulcet voice asking you to enter your personal ID, which you punch out on the handset. "Thank you. Do you want a schedule or a fare?" You punch a six for schedule, and "Mary" asks you to enter your departure and arrival cines, the date and the approximate time you would like to fly. "Fine, let me look that up for you." Mary comes back with a spread of options. You just punch a number if you want her to (Yon've already entered your "profile" which in-cludes your name, contact number and preferred seating) "Right. . . that's confirmed. Please pick up your ticket at the check-in desk. Do you have any other inquiries?"

If you had been concerned with cost rather than convenience, Mary would first have called up a menu of fares, along with restrictions that apply, and then matched them with fares available on a particular flight. She would also have booked a botel and a rental car at your destination. The great thing is that Mary is always poised and polite and never busy on another line. This scenario may seem like science fiction. But it's one example of how Duns-Voice, a novel technology developed by Dunn & Bradstreet, the world's largest business information company, may revolution-ize the way in which people acquire informa-tion from remote data bases. Says Kavaghn Hennessy, D & B's European product manbases. All you need is a touch-tone telephone (You can even convert an ordinary phone with a keypad which fits over the monthpiece, rather like an acoustic coupler).

DunsVoice was first introduced in the United States four years ago as a new service for subscribers to D & B's core business: company information and credit checking. A similar service was started in Britain two months ago; D & B has plans to extend it to the Netherlands and, possibly, West Germany sometime next year.

"It's a relatively cheap operation from our "It's a relatively cheap operation from our standpoint," said Roger Benke, D & B's product manager for Britain, "and you can have as many people calling in as you like." A major advantage to the subscriber is that you can call Mary (or Joyce, her counterpart in the United States) at local rates and get as much or as little information as you want on any of the companies which D & B has on file in Britain.

For the business traveler, the good news is that D & B plans to make DunsVoice available to subscribers of Official Airline Guides, which is one of its subsidiary companies. Tony Clarke, London-based area di-rector of OAG, said, "It will be launched in the U.S. first of all — within the next 12 -and after that in Europe."

Both Official Airline Guides and the British-based ABC Travel Guides, which together dominate the world airline timetable business, came out with electronic editions alongside their venerable hard-copy guides in May 1983 and the last quarter of 1984. respectively. Both electronic systems are comparable in content and form and userfriendly - they can be accessed by telephone-linked computers --- but OAG is unique in having a reservations capability in the United States and the possibility of self-ticketing for "a majority of carriers," according to Clarke. "You can also view room availability and rates of more than 17,000 hotels in North America, 9,000 in Europe and 3,000 in the Asia/Pacific area," he said. But DunsVoice will add a new dimension to the system and may enhance the reservations capability outside the United States. "The voice doesn't try to sell you anything, which is something that people find attractive," he said.

According to Hennessy, the reason why most computer-generated voices sound bad is that they try to string words together into sentences, thereby losing the rhythm of the dialogue. "With DunsVoice, we record entire sentences and then we shoehorn in numbers and letters of the alphabet, which are recorded three different ways. So if you say the number nine, for instance, at the beginning of a word it sounds different than if yon say it in the middle or the end. The same applies to the alphabet. The way we record and digitize the voice is our unique technology. The coding is the easy part, the recording is the most difficult. If yon're having a dialogue with a computer where you can't interject, yon really have to make sure you iron out the subtle mannerisms of speech. I ager, "There's nothing novel about voice suspect the recording took ten-twelths and technology, but I think ours is the most the coding two-twelths of the time." So how do you choose the right voice? "Who would you ideally like to talk to over

by Bel Mooney

S the wandering bands of hippies walk toward Glastonbury to be there in the early morning tomorrow, at the moment when the sun rises for the summer solstice, few will understand precisely the significance of their goal. Drawn to Glastonbury by something — by hearsay, by the mumbo-jumbo of drug cul-ture, by legend, by a belief that the calcula-tions of megalithic astronomers have relevance today, or just by the satisfaction of irritating the British Establishment - these people, who describe themselves as "seek-" are enacting rituals that have fascinated ers, scientists and mystics alike.

The little town of Glastonbury has become a monument to sixties "alternative" lifestyles; the strange hill known as Glaston-bury Tor, its symbol. This year the symbol and the whole midsummer business has attracted more than usual attention. The plight of the raggle-taggle travelers, evicted from farm and forestry land alike, "escorted" by police, abused and defended by local people and politicians by turns, has provided a bizarre focus on some ancient legends.

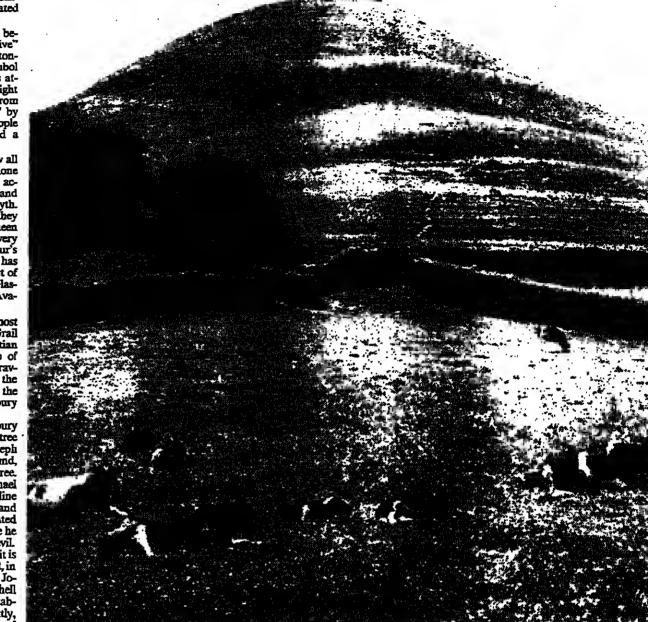

But perhaps if the average Briton knew all the legends about Glastonbury (let alone believed them), it might be universally accepted as a sacred place. For paganism and Christianity mingle in a many-layered myth. St. Patrick's bones lay at Glastonbury, they say. So did those of King Arthur and Queen Guinevere; this was their Camelot. Every episode in the adventures of King Arthur's knights in their quest for the Holy Grail has a physical location in this beautiful West of England countryside, culminating in Glas-tonbury itself, then on an island called Avalon

Further back in time we arrive at the most important legend of all, linked by the Grail to that of Arthur, and vital to Christian mystics. Some still believe that Joseph of Arimathea, the man who buried Jesus, traveled to bring the Gospel from Galilee to the Britons, taking with him the sacred cup, the Holy Grail, which he buried at Glastonbury

The visitor to the mins of Glastonbury Abbey will be shown a flowering thorn tree known as the Glastonbury Thorn — Joseph is said to have rested his staff in the ground, when it promptly sprouted as a thorn tree. Then again, there is the story of St. Michael and the dragon. The Tor is linked by ley line with St Michael's Mount in Cornwall, and with a number of other churches dedicated to St Michael in between. Like St George he was a slayer of the beast that symbolises evil.

It does not matter if any of this is true, it is the ground itself which draws people, and, in any case, its myths predate Arthur and Jo-seph of Arimathea. In 1969, John Mitchell published "The View Over Atlantis," establishing Glastonbury (and, more importantly, Stonehenge) as central to the great pattern of "ley lines," straight alignments of natural landmarks and prehistoric sites which criss-cross the countryside. From belief in the significance of ley lines. it is only a short step to studying theories about unidentified flying objects, Jungian philosophy and the mystical number code which was at the root of ancient art, science and religion. Those who follow the ley lines

Other important feast days are the second Sunday of May, Sept. 29 and the second Sunday in October, with fairs, processions and entertainment. In addition, Sermoneta is the center of the annual July Pontine chamber music festival, when concerts are held in the castle.

As in most medieval towns, the two major poles of activity in Sermoneta remain the castle and the cathedral. Santa Maria Assunta in Cielo dates to the 13th century and is considered an example of the Cistercian achitectural school of the region. There is a fine Benozzo Gozzoli painting of the Madonna, several frescoes and paintings of the 15th, 16th and 17th centuries, a stunning 12th-century altar and an im-Although Sermoneta is worth a day's visit at any pressive carved stone throne, believed to have been time, visitors pour in on Jan. 17, when a free outdoor made during the reign of the Emperor Hadrian. Other historic sites in the surrounding area include: the remains of medieval Ninfa, with the gardens landscaped by the English and American wives of two generations of Caetani, which can be visited the first weekend of every month; medieval Norma, on a nearby hilltop; the Abbey of Valviscioho which, founded by the Benedictines, later passed to the Ferry plars and then the Cistercians; and the Cistercian Abbey of Fossanova, where St. Thomas Aquinas is

HE Kings' Highway in Jordan is a fine paved two-lane road linking the Jordanian captial of Amman with the Red Sea port-resort of paba. Lining both sides of this 335-kilome-(207-mile) thoroughfare is a rich chain of the logical sites that reads like an index ancient history. There are prehistoric vil-" es from the Stone Age, a score of biblical 144 +1. he vas from the kingdoms of Ammon, Moab 1 Edom, four Crusader castles and some

"irst mentioned by name in the Bible imbers 20:17 and 21:22), the King's hway was the route that Moses wished to ow as he led his people north through the d of Edom, which today is in southern dan. The name may, however, derive n the even earlier episode recounted in lesis 14, when an alliance of "four kings on the north" marched their troops along

The Kings' Highway then winds through the picturesque Wadi Wala, passes the excavated remains of biblical Dhiban and suddenly plunges 600 meters (more than 2,000 feet) into Jordan's miniature Grand Canyon, the Wadi Mujib (the Arnoo of the Bible). Through the Mujib, the highway criss-cross-es the ancient Roman road several times, at one point marked by a standing pair of Roman milestones. In Roman days, the road built by the Emperor Trajan along the route of the King's Highway was called the Via Nova Traiana, or Trajan's New Road. The Kings' Highway re-emerges on the south bank of the Mujib onto the plateau of the north the blat is the main there.

the ancient Moabite kingdom, where it skirus the Nabatacan temple at el-Qasr, and the Roman temple/Byzantine church complex at Rahba (biblical Ar Moah and Roman Areopolis). Twenty minutes to the south is Derak (biblical Kir-Moab and Kir Hare-seth), with its massive Crusader fortress, built in 1136, and retaken by the Arab forces of Saladin in 1189. The rest house adjacent to the castle offers sleeping a ties. Twenty minotes east of Kerak is the huge Roman fortress at Lejjun, next to a 5,000-year-old walled town from the Early Bronze Age.

ten minutes to the south is the Nabataean temple at Khirbet el-Dharih, with its fine ornamental stone carving work.

South of the Wadi Hasa, it enters the ancient kingdom of Edom, with the excavat-ed remains of the Edomite capital at Buseira (biblical Bozra). Half an hour to the south is the Crusader fortress of Shkohak (Mons Regalis, or Mootreal), built by Baldwin I in 1115 as a key link in the string of Crusader outposts that once guarded the lands between Jerusalem and Aqaba, Another half an hour to the south hrings the motorist to the spectacular rock-cut Nabataean capital city at Petra, fulcrum of the ancient world's spice and incense routes for 400 years. The four-star Petra Forum Hotel and the more modest rest house offer sleeping, dining and swimming pool facili-ties. You need three days to see the highlights of Petra's 800 monuments, along with the 9,000-year-old excavated Stone Age vil-lage at Beidha, two more Crusader castles, an Edomite mountain-top village and the nearby Roman fortress at Udruh.

From Petra, the King's Highway descends

ie Umayyad palace complex. Leaving Amman, the Highway winds through the high, lush wheatlands of the biblical kingdom of the Ammonites. Several Ammonite settlements have been identified or excavated, at Abel-Keramim (modern Na'ur), Heshbon (biblical Hisban and Roman Esbus), Dhiboo (Dhiban), Madaba and Ara'ir (Aroer). Madaba, 35 kilometers sooth of Amman, sports one of the finest collections of 4th- to th-century Byzantine church mosaics in the Middle East. The most famous is the 6thcentury mosaic map of Palestine, the oldest surviving map of the Holy Land.

Ten minutes by car west of Madaba is the mountain spur of Mount Nebo (biblical Pisgah, modern Siyagha), long thought to be the site from where Moses viewed the Promised Land. Southwest of Madaba are the village of Ma'in (biblical Baalmaon), the hot springs at Zeroa Ma'in (known to the Romans as Baris) and the hot springs of Zara (ancient Callirhoe), where Herod the Great came for a cure the year he died.

En route, you can visit the ruins of the Nabatacan/Roman town of Humeima, a Nabatacan fort at Khirbet el-Khalidi, and the vast, pink sand expanses of Wadi Rum, where "Lawrence of Arabia" was filmed. Its natural beauty and sheer cliffs shooting out of the sandy earth have started to make Wadi Rum a favourite destination of mountain climbers, desert trekkers and camel caravanners.

Central branches of suburban or provincial bookshops are a growing phenomenon (witness the popular Any Amount of Books in the Charing Cross Road, an ollshoot of a Hammersmith used-books operation), as is what appears to be a trend toward multiple proprietors behind one storefroot. For check-writing purposes, the shop in Soho whose sign simply advertises "Secondhand and Rare Books" is Charlotte Robinson's, but she shares the premises with Peter Jol-liffe, based near Oxford, Stephen Clarke's Clearwater Books of Wimborne and Sheila Feller's Unicorn Books from Hendon. They deal primarily in modern first editions, chil-dren's books and illustrated works. Each has his or her patch of floorspace and a glass case for rarer wares. (67 Dean Street, W1, tel. 437-3683. Monday-Friday 11 A.M. to 6 P.M.)

At Bloomsbury Rare Books, the longtime proprietor, Arthur Page, recently opened his basement to a branch of J.G. Beanmoot's Check Books, based in Blackheath. Check Books is good, standard antiquarian fare. neatly arranged; Page's rather more chaotic and interesting domain upstairs ranges from medieval manuscripts (he claims to be one of three booksellers in London dealing regularly in these) to an array of rare books, secondhand hardbacks and a consistently good selection of old Penguin greenback mysteries. (29 Museum Street, WC1, 636-8206, Mon-day-Saturday 10:30 A.M. to 6 P.M., Sunday noon to 6 P.M.)

Louis W. Bondy, who has been a Bloomsbury bookseller for something like 40 years, specializes in miniature books -- less than 3 inches high (7.5 centimeters) - and has written a (normal-sized) book on the subject. He has a small case of miniatures in the main shop and a larger, well-lighted case in the back room that is seldom shown to any but serious buyers. The miniatures go for any-where from £5 up to £1,000. Bondy also sells general antiquarian books. (16 Little Russell Street, WC1, 405-2733, Monday-Friday about 10:30 A.M. to 6:30 P.M., usually closes earlier on Saturdays.)

Bernard Stone's Turret Bookshop is in a section of Bloomshury west of the British Museum that runs heavily to hospitals and medical bookshops. Stone, however, offers a wide range of general books, mostly new. He specializes in the spiky cartoons and illustra-tions of Ralph Steadman. (42 Lamh's Conduit Street, WC1, 405-6058, Monday-Saturday 10 A.M. to 6 P.M.)

The Good Book Guide bookshop, in the ground floor of the Bloomsbury house George du Maurier once lived in, is the retail "front" for what is chiefly an innovative worldwide mail-order operation. It stocks or can get from its warehouse oo short notice a huge variety of new paper and hardcover books. The children's sectioo in du Manrier's former studio is a play area as well, and in the front room there is usually a fire in winter. (91 Great Russell Street, 580-8466, Monday-Saturday 10 A.M. to 6 P.M., Sunday about ocon to 6:30 P.M. Sundays not guaranteed this summer; call first.)

The Gloucester Road Bookshop in South Kensington says (and many other booksellers agree) that it has the longest hours of any bookshop in London. The stock, mostly secondhand, is unexceptional, but this is the place to come weekdays for that pre-breakfast thriller or after-dinner historical novel. (123 Gloucester Road, SW7, 370-3503, Mon-day-Friday 8:30 A.M. to 10:30 P.M., Saturday-Sunday 10:30 A.M. to 6:30 P.M.)

Oppenheim & Co., also in South Kensington, oear the Victoria & Albert Museum. stocks almost exclusively remainders and other discounted paperback and hardcover books — an increasingly common phenome-non in a city where this used to be a great lack. Oppenheim is special for its section of low-price books on transportation, especially cars and ships. (7/9 Exhibition Road, SW7, 584-5641, about 9 A.M. to 6 P.M. every day.) John Sandoe's shop in Chelsea, off Sloane Square, is a miracle of shelving engineering. It is so crammed with books, it appears ready to burst at any minute. Books are stacked and propped on stairs, on chairs, in corners, on other books. Despite this, the wide-ranging general stock is fairly easy to sort out, after a few minutes' study, and Sandoe and his staff are remarkably helpful. (10 Blacklands Terrace, SW3, 589-9473. Monday-Saturday 9:30 A.M. to 5:30 P.M. Sometimes closed 1-2 P.M.)

J.A. Allen & Co. is probably the only bookshop in Britain that is devoted exclusively to horses. Located across from the Royal Mews just off Buckingham Palace Road, it stocks "all publications currently in print relating to Equine and Equestrian mat-ters whether published in this country or overseas." This includes everything from pa-perbacks of "My Friend Flicka" to pamphlets such as "A Glossary of French Bloodstock Terminology." (1 Lower Grosvenor Place, London SW1, 834-5606/7 or 828-8855. Monday-Friday 9 A.M. to 5:30 P.M., Saturday 9 A.M. to 1 P.M.)

Another narrowly specialized shop is Dance Books, which carries oot only books (including its own imprint) but posters, photographs, recordings and periodicals on everything from the Kirov to clogs. It is also worth visiting for its location, a pedestrian street between Charing Cross Road and St. Martin's Lane that is bookshops from end to end on both sides. (9 Cecil Court, WC2, 836-2314, Monday-Saturday 11 A.M. to 7 P.M.) Edward Stanford, which was founded in 1852 and has been in its shop near Covent Garden since 1901, is first and foremost a map-seller (believed to be the world's largest), but in addition to room-size cases of flat maps and wall upon wall of folded maps, it stocks a staggering selection of new travel books and guides. (12-14 Long Acre, WC2, 836-1321. Monday 10 A.M. to 6 P.M., Tuesday-Friday 9 A.M. to 6 P.M., Saturday 10 A.M. to 5 P.M.)

TECHNOLOGY

Using Antibody Antibodies In the Treatment of Disease

By ANDREW POLLACK New York Times Service

What is less well known is that the attacked by a second wave of attacked by yet a third wave, and so on. Such an explanation of how the immune system regulates the roduction of antibodies was first proposed more than 10 years igo by Niels K. These factors affected sales in a These factors affected sales in a highly competitive video market that hit foreign subsidiaries espe-cially hard, it suid. JVC said its net income fell to 10.9 billion yen (about $65 million at current rates) from 23.4 billion yen a year earlier. Revenue fell to 700.2 billion yen from 765.4 billion, it said. The fall in sales was particularly disappointing in the video sector, where sales fell by 15 percent, from 503.6 billion yen to 437.2 billion yen. This sector accounted for 63 percent of JVC sales, compared it said with 66 percent the previous year. JVC was the second major Japanese electronics company in as many days to report lower results because of the yen's appreciation against the dollar. Sony Corp. said Wednesday that its group net profit fell 7.9 percent in the six months ended April 30, while group operating profit plunged 42 percent. JVC said it expects the business climate to be even tougher this year, now that the yen appears to have stabilized at a high level.

It said it will continue reducing inventories and bank debt, while improving its management meth-ods. It said it would develop pro-duction outside Japan and would continue Jaunching new products. In the video field, the company is lacing great hopes on its GR-C7

After a trading halt for the announcement, Dart stock surged $3.125 a share Thursday on the New York Stock Exchange, to close at $60.25.

"This move is designed to continue our record of increasing the value of our stockholders' invest-ment over the long term," John M. Richman, Dart & Kraft's chairman and chief executive officer, said in a prepared statement. Based on 1985 results, the combination of Tupperware, Hobart, West Bend and Wilsonart would create a company with sales of $2 billion, assets of $1.3 billion and 23,000 employees. Kraft Inc. would be a company with approximately $8 billion in annual sales, assets of $3.2 billion and more than 50,000 employees. It would include Dart & Kraft Financial, an unconsolidated leasing subsidiary.

The transaction would be completed through a pro rata distribu-tion to Dart & Kraft shareholders of all stock in the smaller company. When the distribution becomes effective, which is expected by the end of 1986, Dart & Kraft share-holders would hold shares in the smaller company as well as Dart & Kraft certificates, reflecting their ownership in the new Kraft Inc. The plan is subject to definitive agreements, Dart said. Upon ap-proval, the board would establish record and payment dates for the stock distribution and the ratio of shares to be distributed.

In Washington, Paul A. Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve considered unrealistic. The naming of Gustavo Petri-Board, told a congressional com-cioli as finance minister was thus mittee Wednesday that he expected viewed by bankers and analysts as a fresh attempt by the Mexicans to Mexico would soon come to terms with the IMF despite the change in that country's financial leadership. strengthen their position at the bargaining table.

The bankers and analysts said an "Silva Herzog was just not the man to present the new IMF ac-IMF accord was days away. They said that the accord would call for scaling back subsidies of food and cord to the Mexican public," said the head of Latin American lending scaling parts substitute to root must transportation that are politically popular in Mexico and that leading officials apparently felt it would be least painful if the plan were prefor a major New York City bank "He would not have the credibility that a new person will have."

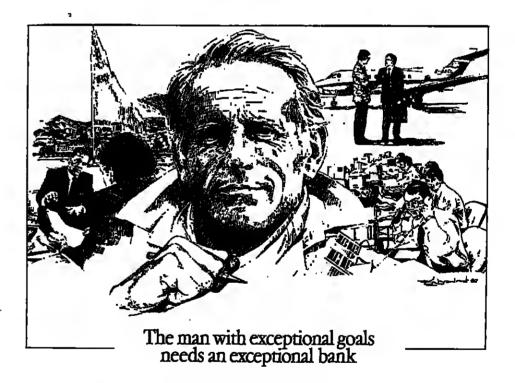

In fact, it remained unclear to sented by a new face. Bankers and analysts also noted was dismissed or resigned. Whatevthat Mr. Silva Herzog, while crediter the case, the experts said they expected no dramatic changes in either Mexico's position on its $97billion foreign debt or on the likely outcome of the country's financial crisis.

> Experts noted that both Mr. Silva Herzog and Mr. Petricioli have similar backgrounds, including educations at Yale University. The men are also longtime friends and political allies. Most important, the political and economic limits within which the debt problem must be handled are so well defined that it seemed unlikely that the resignation of one official could alter things radically.

So the experts said they expected events to unfold about as they would have if Mr. Silva Herzog had remained: The Mexicans will agree to make certain changes in their conomy, including the reductions in subsidies; an IMF accord will be signed shorthy thereafter, and commercial banks will then agree to provide new loans with limited concessions on interest rates.

Bankers and analysis seemed more concerned about whether Mr. Silva Herzog's departure might bring about resignations by other economic officials. In particular, many bankers and analysis feared that Miguel Mancera Aguayo, the governor of the Bank of Mexico. and Angel Gurria, who has headed Mexico's debt-negotiating team, might step down in a show of solidarity with Mr. Silva Herzog. Mr. Mancera has instituted policies on interest rates and the peso that have helped maintain Mexico's forcign-currency reserves. Mr. Gunia is considered one of the most knowledgeable financial experts in Mexico.

COMPANY NOTES

Asea AB and the Saudi Arabian government have agreed to build a switchgear manufacturing plant in Riyadh that will begin production in 1987. The Swed-ish electronics maker will have a 40-percent stake. Bayer AG, the West German chemicals giant, said it expected drop in sales caused mainly by the fall of the dollar. The company said the dollar's decime should help hold down costs, especially for raw materials. World group sales in the first four months of 1986 fell 11.8 percent to 14.4 billion DM, while parent compa-ny sales for the first five months fell 3.9 percent to 7.7 ullion DM.

Beghin-Say SA, the French sugar producer, said profits in its cellulose wadding and newsprint divi-sions rose 45 percent in the first four months from the 1985 period, while margins in its sugar-refining business improved sharply because of the fall in fuel prices. Officials repeated that 1986 profit should be at least triple the 53.3 million francs ($7.6 million) recorded in 1985.

China Bridge Ltd., a local trading company, has signed a $46-million loan to finance the renovation and expansion of the Xin Qiao Hotel in Beijing. The 12-year loan has a three-year grace period. Hokkaido

Takushoku Bank and Nanyang Commercial Bank are lead managers. Cha-Geigy AG, the Swiss chemicals giant, said it is establishing new international research laboratories at its Japanese beadquarters in Takarazuka that will concentrate on biological and materials sciences. About 130 people will be based at the laboratories by the 1990s.

Dow Chemical Co. said it has signed an accord with Beijing Yanshan Petrochemical Corp. to license tech-pology and assist in engineering and equipment pur-chase for a plant near Beijing that will more than double China's annual polystyrene outpot. Details were not disclosed.

Grangdong International Trust & Investment Corp. of China will establish a stockbrokerage firm in Hong Kong with Marubeni HK Ltd. and Linton Chu, a local broker, Mr. Chu said. China already has two such firms in Hong Kong, through the Bank of China and

J AMES Mills figures illegal drug dealers around the world earn a half-trillion dollars a year, and he adds, for those who need imag-ery to grasp that figure, "A half-trillion dollars would weigh more than the entire population of Washington, D.C." Industrialists on that scale, oeedless to say, have lots of well-placed friends. "Over a period of six years," Mills writes, "I became convinced of the participation in the drug traffic of high officials in at least 33 countries." He includes the United States, of course, hut except for the CIA, whose "still-fresh footprints" he claims to have seen in major narcotics camps - he is unfortunately vague about who or how.

Efforts to stop drugs at the border are phony; it can only be done at the source. Using this standard, he finds all presidents guilty by rea-son of apathy, except Richard Nixon, who was "the only president ever to make the hattle a serious foreign policy issue." Ronald Reagan's War on Drugs, which Mills considers "a joke," can be measured by the $50.2 million the United States spent to control drugs around the world in 1984 — "less than the value of a single load of cocaine." Instead, the United States goes along with the charade of Latin American cooperation. "A Colombia Navy patrol boat, provided at a cost of $2 million by the United States, operating in the most smuggler-infested waters in the world, had in two years searched only fifteen vessels. It seized one kilo of cocaine, some marijuana residue, and a small amount of American currency."

One night in 1979 at a Washington party Mills heard some guests talking about "Cen-tac," and when he asked what it was, the answers were "politely evaded or ignored." And yet the next day he was taken, "without warning or explanation," to a hideaway suite "in one of Washingtoo's most ootorious wino-junkie neighborhoods," to meet Dennis Dayle, head of Centac, an elite corps of 50 agents in the Drug Enforcement Agency, who spent the oext four hours answering every question Mills could think to ask.

Heyl What luck! Why was he chosen for that flood of candor when, he says, up to that time "no more than a handful of men in the world understood completely what Centac was and what it did"? We don't get an answer. Nor do we learn why, a few weeks later, the DEA decided to let him have access to some of its secret files and tag along, tape recorder hum-ming, on some of Centac's operations.

My guess is that DEA wanted some classy publicity to use at budget time and it knew Mills could handle both nonfiction ("The Prosecutor") and fiction ("Report to the Commissioner"), and had a good sense of humor and a sometimes Saturday-matinee style that would go nicely with the DEA's usual hlend of fact and fiction. If so, it was too late. Centac was killed when the Reagan Administration reshuffled the drug enforcement bureaucracy.

Mills describes his adventure as "a five-year odyssey through a labyrinthine underground world I believe no journalist ever before traveled end-to-end, a meticulously filligreed web of passages within which hums and clatters a multibillion market of drugs, assassins, weapons, and spies. It was a world of diplomats, statesmen, global politics, and crime, where everything could be bought for cash - lives, armies, the governments of nations."

Wow! But let's go on. "Centac became at once a lens through which to view that Empire, and a vehicle to take me to its center, face to face with its leaders, their wives and lovers, into their mansions and yachts, their banks and counting rooms, to a secret wonderland of wealth so vast it threatened the economic stability of the world."

I don't remember accompanying Mills to all those places, but be did do an awful lot of leg work and interviewing. My only quibble is that most of those he got his information from were, necessarily, drug agents and drug dealers (turned stool) who were doubtless eager to impress this writer with what romantic chaps they were — "free spirit people," as one dealer public to Mille put it 10 Mills.

The book revolves around Centac's efforts to build conspiracy cases against three organizations. I won't give away the conclusions of the three investigations except to say that Dennis Dayle's boast, "We can do anything," turned out to be wrong. Still, along the way the Centac chases provide Mills with many good anecdotes, some glossy profiles, some stuff that, as he admits, is kind of hard to believe. But when the toris is dure who insists on But when the topic is drugs, who insists on credibility?

The bad oews is the poundage. It reminds me of that recent New Yorker cartoon: A publishing house executive, referring to the mound of manuscript on his desk, says to the author, "I'm sorry we can't be more encourage ing, but allow me to add that you've got a hell of a lot of book here."

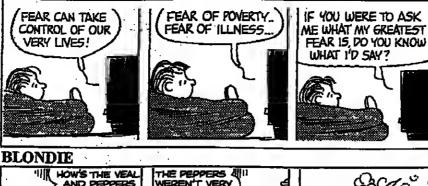

A good writer and reporter has been seduced and betrayed by his own diligence. Mills col-lected "hundreds of pages of classified documents, 183 two-hour tape cassettes (these eventually produced more than 7,000 pages of transcription), and 22 ootebooks" — and he fell fatally in love with too much of it. OBSERVER No Salad for Caesar

By Russell Baker NEW YORK - Julius Caesar got things done. He thought he'd like to try to conquer Gaul, so he tried, and he conquered it.

Everyone was amazed. "How in the world did you do it?" was the universal question. "By refusing to be distracted by minor problems," he said. And he told a story to illustrate. One day after conquering the Helveiii, he was having lunch in his tent while planning a campaign against the Belgae when the conquered Helvetian chieftain Vercingetorix was brought in in chains.

Noticing that Caesar was eating a cold chicken sandwich covered with gravy, that he planned to chase it with a stack of graham crackers covered with peanut butter, then wash everything down with a pot of caffeinated coffee. Vercingetorix was appalled.

"That gravy is loaded with cho-lesterol, that caffeinated coffee is terrible for your heart and people eating peanut butter in that quantity could choke to death unless they have somebody standing by who is trained to do the Heimlich maneuver," said Vercingetorix.

"Astonishing," said Caesar. "How do you know such things?" 'I spend a lot of time studying dietary science and watching what goes down the old gullet," said Vercingetorix, "and you'd better do the same if you want to live to be 135."

n Caesar immediately ordered Vercingetorix freed and sent to the land of the Belgae to preach dietary science. The next month, when Caesar's legions fell upon them. the Belgae were so demoralized by having to pass up the gravy for organically grown watercress that they had litue heart for battle.

"If I've got to spend my life thinking about fodder instead of getting things done," Caesar said to his friend Brutus, "I'd just as soon not live to be 135. Et tu, Brute?"

"You said it," Brutus replied, Once Julius Caesar decided to go to England despite hordes of terrorists who would have ex- make them swallow tax reform." pressed their dislike of tourists by blowing them up if dynamite had been available.

paid double indemnity, and borrowing enough money from his Uncle Fabian to make the first premium payment. After all, they argued, the English would throw spears first and ask questions later since they would surely think Caesar had come to kill them.

Idling around insurance offices is all very well for a man's next of kin, but it's no way to get things done," Caesar said to his friend Antony. "Anyhow. I go to tour England, not 10 bury it. Caesar, remembering his family's paralyzing but nonetheless potentially profitable fear of terror ists, decided he would try to found Lloyd's of London, and he would have, too, except for a sudden urge to try crossing the Rubicon. п

Caesar tried it, and crossed it. On the south bank, he was accosted by Cassius, bosom buddy of Brutus. "Julius, Julius, is that any way to cross the Rubicon?" asked Cassins.

Caesar was alarmed by Cassius's physical appearance. He looked lean and hungry. Caesar warned Cassius about Vercingetorix, then asked about the Rubicon. Cassius explained that the Sen-

Cassius said that if Caesar thought more, he would be able to cross the Rubicon legally. Suppose he created a political action committee composed of Rome's richest men. These men would give money to the senators and, after years of heing corrupted, the senators would vote to let Caesar and his

have to win it again or else you get your visa taken away."

For an American, he continued, the racer's life offers different perils. "My living habits have grown, my hahits period have grown. Once you have a million. you always want a million. I'm living in California, California is beaches, so you have to have a house on the beach. I bought a car to compete with the rest of the cars in California. Because of cycling, my living habits bave changed. It's a big incentive to do well. I want more, I want it all for myself." He paused, then added, But that's not saying 1 won't tan's garment district to find his first job, pushing racks of clothes along Seventh Avenue from subcontractor to manufacturer to showroom. That lasted a few months. "Then I got a job inside at a company — right time, right place - as a shipping clerk." He stayed from 1976 to 1980, when he became a bicycle messenger in Manhattan. Not just a messenger, he pointed out, "There were 150 guys and I was one of the top 10 messengers." Quality was measured by how much of the customer's fee was paid to the rider. "I was a 60-percent rider," Vails explained, "making $400 a week. If you're good, you're good."

More specifically, he added, "I was quick in delivering the messages, able to handle the load in pressure. Instead of giving you one or two, I could handle eight at him all my secrets. The great debate over whether Englishmen are funnier than Americans started decorously at the Oxford Union, that hotbed of British oratory, hut quickly degenerated into a no-holds-harred, Xrated exchange of gags. The admittedly partisan audience voted overwhelmingly that the English team - the saturist John Wells and the standup comedian Jasper Carthe standup comedian Jasper Car-rott — was furnier than Steve Al-len and Alam King, representing the colonies. Leshe McNish's proposal to her longtime companion, John (Sugar) Flanagan was not only untraditional, it was conditional on whether they lived through the next few days. Flanagan was first mate and McNish the bosun on the Pride of Baltimore, a schooner that sank in the Atlantic in May, killing four crew members. As they were treading water around an uninflated raft, MeNish recalled, she "turned to Sugar and said, 'If we ever get out of this, we're going to get mar-ried." "Flanagan responded, "Sure. ery chance I get, I go hack East to see my family. A lot of the time when I'm in New York it's just for business with no time to hang out. I know if I stay I won't get the time f need for training." In Southern California, he continued, he can train the year around. "It's warm. That's why I chose to live there, because it's
